A REMINISCENCE OF THE ITALIAN REVO-LUTION.—A curious story is told of the sury of the Pledmontess into Perugia. When they were sutering the town (the citadel being then still in possession of the mercen-aries under Schmidt) a priest, who had said mass that morning, changed his robes for a layman's dress, took a gun, and stationed himself at a window. A Piedmontese regiment came marching past, and at its head was the drum-major, a magnificent-looking fellow, gigantic, bearded and much embroidered, as is the wont of those of his class. The pricet, who probably took him for the Colonel, fired and killed him. The soldiers broke into the hone, and, after a soldiers broke into the honee, and, after a long cestch, found the assassin concealed under a heap of faggots in the cellar. A drum-head court-martial was instantly formed; two or three soldiers had seen him free; there could be no doubt of his gnilt, which, indeed, he himself cearcely attempted to deny. It was rather an odd circumsiance that while the court-martial was sitting it was disturbed by the enemy's fire, and obliged to change its place. The priest was condemned to death and immediately shot.

CHEF JUSTICE TANKE AND THE INAUGE.

AATION.—At a dinner given by the President recently, to the Snyreme and other judges of this District, it is anthoritatively stated that Chief Justice Tancy said, "that, if alive, he would administer the oath of office to Lincoln if he had to go to Springfield to do it!" This was worthy of the patriolism of the chief judicial officer of the Republic, and shows that the venerable may be still and shows that the venerable may be still or the chief justical officer of the Republic, and shows that the venerable man has still preserved some of the fire of the immortal Jackson, who gave him the distinguished poeition he now occupies. The rumors are still prevalent here that a secretly-organized mob contemplates rushing into the Illenee of Representatives on the day set apart by the Constitution to count the votes for Presiof Representatives on the day set apart by the Constitution to count the votes for President, with the intention of destroying the legal returns, so that Lincoln cannot be lewfully proclaimed the President elect Such a report at any other time than this would be locked upon as the vitest trash, but unlikely as such a proceeding as this is to happen, preparatione have been made to meet it square.— Wash Cor. A Convention in Kentucky.

The present Legislature meets, under an ath, to support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of Kentucky. Can these men, under this oath, call a Convention to consider whether the Federal Constitution shall be regarded or not; the Union preserved or seolved? Besides, the Constitution of this State provides for the mode of calling a Convention to amend onr State Constitution. We suppose any change in our organic law can be accomplished no other way. Csrtainly no Convention, called any other way, could have anthority to alter our relations to the Federal Government; for that is a radical change in our Government. If Kentacky chould, by a Convention, go out of the Union, then the powers of government delegated to the United States, would have to be located in some department of our State Government; and that would force a change in our State Constitution. Indeed. it is hard to conceive a more radical and important change. If revolution becomes necessary, let it be proclaimed; revolution against our own State Constitution. This, we are assured, is the wish of the whole State. As to our own county, there are not a has dred men who do not hold to it as a just compromise. When this shall heve been done, it behooves our Legislature to allow a sufficient time to the several States to act. To make From Den'on and Montigue there are urgent is any overt act of aggression, to fly into the arms of eccession and disnaion, involving the ruin of our trade, and all the horrore and wrath of war to be visited alike on defenseless women and children, would be no less unconricons and undignified then it

The resolutions which she will present will be of a character calculated to give peace, if she does not desert the post of dnty. XXXVIth Congress-Second Session.

Washington, Jan. 15 - House.—Among other preliminary business, Mr. Harris, of claryland, presented a memorial signed by Maryland, presented a memorial signed by 12,000 citizens of Baltimore, irrespective of party, praying for the adoption of the Crittenden compromises. He said if there was a desire to tranquilize the public mind, it could not be done more effectually than by the adoption of that measure.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Army bill.

Mr. Reagan, of Texas, said he came hither with the hope that such measures might be brought forward by those who have the power to control the question, as would assure the South of future security.

The Republicans have held sullenly back and declared that they have no terms of peace to offer.

Mr. Stanton vindicated the Methodists from the charge of Mr. Reagan, that they stirred up insurrections were inaugurated by that sect as a body, but by membars of it in Texas.

Mr. Stanton defended the Republican at Marylanding standard consisted of the Red river packet Gen'l Hodges, Capt. Donnel-ty, the U.S. mail and passenger packet for Henderson and all way landings to-day, and will leave the city wharf this evening at 4 o'clock.

......The new steamer Magenta is advertised to leave for New Orleans on Saturday next.

......A Nashville paper says that within the passi two weeks the entire freights from that port to Georgia and Alabama consisted of means and breadstuits.

The New Orleans Crescent says that a secession flag was to be cast from the jack staff of the Red river packet Gen'l Hodges, Capt. Donnel-ty, where the city wharf this evening at 4 o'clock.

......The new steamer Magenta is advertised to leave for New Orleans on Saturday next.

......A Nashville paper says that a secession flag was to be cast from the secession f dered under any threst of civil war. The Republican party has no principle or policy not anctioned by the republican fathers. From this point they coult not be driven. He said he knew no Republican who looks to that organization as designed to intefere, directly or indirectly, in the remotest degree, with slavery in the States.

During his remarks, Mr. Crawford said that Georgia had seized the forts because they were intended for her protection and defense, and takes all the responsibility.

Stanton said Georgia takes on herself the inauguration of civil war, and makes no prefense of constitutional justification for the act.

Mr. Hill disclaimed the act on the part of Georgia as a Nate. It was done by Mr. Hill disclaimed the act on the part of deorgia as a State. It was done by soldiers without authority.

Mr. Love thought the position of both his colleagues wrong; the forts were selzed as a defensive act, there being a probability that the government would send garrisons to them. If the convention of Georgia determine not to seede, the forts will be surrendered. He said if Georgia should seede, he was determined to sustain the Governor. he was determined to sustain the Governor in his act, for weal or woe.

In his act, for weal or woe.

Mr. Stanton was willing for an amendment to the Constitution to prevent the Federal Government ever interfering with slavery in the States except by the unanimous vote of the States. He was also willing to remove the agitation of territorial questions by admitting New Mexico as a State.

Mr. Adrian, in the course of his remarks, Mr. Adrian, in the course of his remarks, said if the Union was to be dissolved it would uct be without an effort by all patrotic men to provent it by all constitutional means. The North will defend it to the last. He argued that it was the duty of every one to allay, not excite the present feeling, and add fuel to the fire uow intensely burning. Mr. Licoly he will be a solution of the said of the s feeling, and add fuel to the fire uow intenseburning. Mr. Lincolu, he said, was a conservative man, from whom the South have nothing to fear. He concluded with a patriotic appeal for concession and compromise. The doctrine of peaceful secession was utterly fallacious.

Mr. Andersou, of Missouri, favored a meeting of the Border States, and that the Gulf States, too, participate. There should have been coucert and union between all the
